On 29 January 2009, the European Commission issued a press release announcing the launch of an infringement proceeding against Romania due to an infringement of Community rules on the independence of the telecommunications regulator.

This was triggered by the removal from office of the President of the Autoritatea Națională pentru Reglementare în Comunicații și Tehnologia Informației, (national regulatory body for communication and information technology- ANRCTI) in August 2008 by the then Romanian Prime Minister Tăriceanu and the subsequent appointment of a replacement. Although the Bucharest Court of Appeal declared the change unlawful on 18 September 2008, the former President was not reinstated in his position because, on the very same day, the Romanian Government decided to restructure the ANRCTI by passing Emergency Decree no. 106 (Ordonanța de Urgență a Guvernului nr. 106 din 18 septembrie 2008 privind înființarea Autorității Naționale pentru Comunicații) . The newly formed authority, Autoritatea Națională pentru Comunicații (national communication authority - ANC), was to be chaired by the newly appointed President.

The European Commissioner for Information Society and Media considered this restructuring to be a violation of the independence of the national regulator and sent administrative letters to the Government on 19 September and 14 October 2008, expressing her concern about the failure to comply with the Court of Appeal's ruling, the hasty restructuring of the regulatory body and the resulting harm to the stability and independence of the telecoms market in Romania. Since the Government failed to provide a satisfactory response, the Commission launched the first stage of an infringement proceeding against Romania under Article 226 of the EC Treaty on 29 January 2009.

The newly elected Romanian Government must now find a solution in accordance with the Community acquis . The Commission is offering the new authorities its support. During the first stage of the proceeding, which lasts two months, Romania must decide on the fate of the ANC. One possibility being discussed is for the regulator to be under the control of the Parliament rather than the Government. The Ministerul Comunicațiilor și Societății Informaționale (Ministry for Communication and Information Society- MCSI) has decided to set up a working group to discuss the matter.
